ٱلَّذِينَ تَعْبُدُونَ those that you worship
مِن دُونِ ٱللَّهِ in lieu of Allah;
وَلَٰكِنْ أَعْبُدُ ٱللَّهَ ٱلَّذِى but I worship Allah Who يَتَوَفَّىٰكُمْ causes you to die[5]
وَأُمِرْتُ and I have been commanded
أَنْ أَكُونَ مِنَ ٱلْمُؤْمِنِينَ that I be of the believers.
﴿١٠٤﴾

وَأَنْ أَقِمْ 105. And that you set
وَجْهَكَ لِلدِّينِ your face[6] to the religion
حَنِيفًا being a sincere monotheist[7]
وَلَا تَكُونَنَّ مِنَ and never be of
ٱلْمُشْرِكِينَ the polytheists.[8]
﴿١٠٥﴾

وَلَا تَدْعُ 106. Nor invoke
مِن دُونِ ٱللَّهِ in lieu of Allah

1. This was an assurance by Allah to the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, that He would deliver him and the believers from the persecution of the unbelievers and from any retribution that might befall the latter on account of their unbelief and disobedience.

2. شك shakk (s.; pl. shukûk) = doubt, uncertainty, suspicion, misgiving. See at 10:94, p. 671, n. 1.

3. دين dîn = religion, creed, faith, worship, judgement. See at 10:22, p. 645, n. 3.

4. This is a clear statement of tawhîd (monotheism) in respect of worship and submission. أعبد 'a'budu = I worship, serve, adore (v. i. s. impfct. from 'abada ['ibâdah /'ubûdah /'ubûdiyah], to worship, serve. See u'bdû at 7:73, p. 494, n. 6 and na'budu at 1:5, p. 2, n. 1).

5. يتوفى yatawaffâ = he takes fully, receives in full, causes to die (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from tawaffâ, from V of wafâ [wafâ'/wafy], to be perfect, to fulfil. See at 8:50, p. 566, n. 1).

6. i. e., your whole self, without turning to anything or anyone else in paying allegiance, worshipping and seeking assistance. وجه wajh (s.; pl. wujûh) = appearance, face, countenance, front, direction, purpose, goal, intent, objective. See at 3:72, p. 183, n. 5; 2:115, p. 55, n. 3.

7. حنيف ḥanîf (s.; pl. ḥunafâ') = one who shuns the false religions and follows the true religion, a true, sincere and absolute monotheist. The term ḥanîf has been used a dozen times in the Qur'ân, always in contradistinction to polytheism and polytheists. See at 6:78, , p. 423, n. 5).

8. This concluding clause clarifies the sense of a hanîf being the very opposite of a polytheist. مشركين mushrikîn (pl.; accusative /genitive of mushrikûn, sing. mushrik) = polytheists, those who set partners with Allah (active participle from 'ashraka, form IV of sharika [shirk/ shirkah/ sharikah], to share. See at 6:161, p. 462, n. 10).

مَا لَا يَنفَعُكَ that which neither benefits[1]
وَلَا يَضُرُّكَ you nor harms[2] you.
فَإِن فَعَلْتَ If you do,
فَإِنَّكَ إِذًا you will indeed then be
مِّنَ الظَّالِمِينَ ﴿١٠٦﴾ of the transgressors.[3]

وَإِن يَمْسَسْكَ اللَّهُ 107. And if Allah hits[4]
بِضُرٍّ you with a harm,
فَلَا كَاشِفَ لَهُ إِلَّا هُوَ none is there to remove[5] it except He;
وَإِن يُرِدْكَ and if he intends[6] for you any
بِخَيْرٍ فَلَا رَادَّ good, none can hold back[7]
لِفَضْلِهِ His bounty.
يُصِيبُ بِهِ مَن يَشَاءُ He bestows[8] it on whom He مِنْ عِبَادِهِ will of His servants; and
وَهُوَ الْغَفُورُ He is the Most Forgiving,
الرَّحِيمُ ﴿١٠٧﴾ Most Merciful.

قُلْ يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ 108. Say: "O men, there
قَدْ جَاءَكُمُ الْحَقُّ has come to you the truth
مِن رَّبِّكُمْ from your Lord. So
فَمَنِ اهْتَدَىٰ whoever receives guidance,[9]
فَإِنَّمَا يَهْتَدِي He but receives guidance

1. The idols and images, indeed all the imaginary gods and goddesses that the polytheists worship have no power to do any god or harm. It is Allah Alone Who has the power to do good or to cause harm, as stated in the next 'âyah. ينفع yanfa'u = he (or it) benefits, is of use, avails (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from nafa'a [naf'], to be useful, be of use. At 31:13 the Qur'ân calls shirk a grave ẓulm. ظالمين ẓâlimîn (acc./gen. of ẓâlimûn, sing. ẓâlim) = transgressors wrong-doers, unjust persons (active participle of zalama [ẓulm], to transgress, do wrong. See at 10:39, p. 652, n. 6).

4. يمسس yamsas (yamassu from yamsasu)= he touches, feels, hits (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from massa [mass/masîs], to feel, to touch. The final letter is vowelless for the verb is in a conditional clause preceded by 'in . See at 6:17, p. 397, n. 8).

5. كاشف kâshif (s.; pl. kâshifûn/ kashafah) = one who removes, discoverer, investigator (active participle from kashafa [kashf], to remove, to throw open). See at 6:17, p. 397, n. 10.

6. يرد yurid (yurîdu)= he intends, desires, has in mind (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from 'arâda, form IV from râda [rawd], to walk about. The final letter is vowelless and so the medial yâ' is dropped because the verb is in a conditional clause preceded by 'in . See at 6:125, p. 444, n. 1).

7. راد râdd = one who puts back, repels, resists, returns, holds back (active participle from radda [radd], to send back, to put back. See yaruddûna at 9:101, p. 621, n. 13).

9. اهتدى ihtadâ = he received guidance, was led on the right way (v. iii. m. s. past in form VIII of hadâ [hidâyah/hudan/hady], to lead, to guide. See muhtadîn at 10:45, p. 654, n. 2).

لِنَفْسِهِۦ for himself;
وَمَن ضَلَّ and whoever goes astray,[1] he
فَإِنَّمَا يَضِلُّ عَلَيْهَا but strays to his loss;
وَمَآ أَنَا۠ عَلَيْكُم and I am not over you
بِوَكِيلٍ ﴿١٠٨﴾ a guarduan-trustee."[2]

وَٱتَّبِعْ مَا 109. And follow[3] what يُوحَىٰٓ إِلَيْكَ is communicated[4] to you
وَٱصْبِرْ and have patience[5]
حَتَّىٰ يَحْكُمَ ٱللَّهُ until Allah decides;[6]
وَهُوَ خَيْرُ ٱلْحَٰكِمِينَ and He is the Best of Judges.
﴿١٠٩﴾

1. ضل ḍalla = he lost way, went astray, strayed from (v. iii. m. s. past from ḍalâl/ḍalâlah, to loose one's way. See at 7:37, p. 478, n. 9).

3. اتبع ittabi' = follow, obey (v. ii. m. s. imperative from itttaba'a, form VIII of tabi'a [taba'/ tabâ'ah], to follow. See attabi'u at 6:106, p. 435, n. 14).

4. يوحى yûḥâ = it is communicated (v. iii. m. s. impfct. passive from 'awḥâ, form IV of waḥâ [waḥy], to communicate. See at 10:15, p. 641, n. 11). The word waḥy technically means Allah's communication to His Prophets by various means.(See 2:92, 16:2, 16:102, 26:193 and 42:51. See also Bukhârî, nos. 2-4).

5. اصبر iṣbir = be patient, have patience, bear calmly, persevere, (v. ii. m. s. imperative from ṣabara [ṣabr], to be patient, to bind. See iṣbirû at 8:46, p. 564, n. 5).

6. i. e., decides between you and the unbelievers who do you wrong. يحكم yaḥkuma(u) = he or it adjudicates, passes judgement, gives verdict, decides (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from ḥakama [ḥukm], to pass judgement. The last letter takes fatḥah because of a hidden 'an in ḥattâ coming before the verb. See at 7:88, p. 500, n. 3).

11. SÛRAT HÛD

Makkan: 123 'âyahs

This is a late Makkan sûrah, revealed after the death of 'Umm al-Mu'minîn Khadîjah, (r. a.) and the Prophet's uncle 'Abû Ṭâlib. Like all Makkan sûrahs it concentrates on the fundamentals of the faith, namely, monotheism (tawhîd), risâlah (Messengership of Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him), the truth of the Qur'ân being a Book sent by Allah, Resurrection, Day of Judgement, reward and punishment. The Islamic mission and the Muslims had been passing through a difficult phase at that time due to the opposition and persecution of the unbelieving Makkan leaders. The sûrah therefore consoles and encourages the believers by drawing attention to the fact that all the previous Prophets had to face similar opposition and enmity of the unbelieving leaders and their followers and that Allah had always helped and rescued the Prophets and the believers. In this context the story of Prophet Nûh, peace be on him, is related in some detail. This is followed by the story of Prophet Hûd, peace be on him, who was sent to the physically gigantic and self conceited 'Âd people. The sûrah is named after him. Then reference is made to the missions and struggles of Prophets Ṣâlih, Lût, Shu'ayb, Mûsâ and Hârûn, peace and blessings of Allah be on them, the underlying emphasis being that all the previous Prophets had delivered the same message of monotheism and Islam.

12. SÛRAT YÛSUF

Makkan: 111 'âyahs

This sûrah was revealed after the previous Sûrat Hûd during the late Makkan period when the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and his mission were passing through a difficult period due to the opposition and enmity of the unbelieving Makkan people. The sûrah is named after Prophet Yûsuf, peace be on him, whose story is related in it, highlighting the trials and difficulties he had to face because of the jealousy and machinations of his own brothers, the intrigue of some others in his new domicile in Egypt and his imprisonment there, emphasizing that Allah saved him from all the trials and difficulties and ulltimately gave him success and honour. As in the case of the accounts of the other Prophets given in the Qur'ân, the story of Yûsuf, peace be on him, is also aimed at consoling and encouraging the Prophet Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, in his struggle and mission. The Qur'ân characterizes the story of Yûsuf, peace be on him, as the "best of accounts" ('aḥsan al-qaṣaṣ). The accounts of the other Prophets are usually given in the Qur'ân in parts in several sûrahs; but that of Yûsuf, peace be on him, is given only in this sûrah which deals exclusively with his story, together with matters of the faith.

8. i. e., out of jealousy and envy; for the implication of the dream was quite obvious that Yûsuf, peace be on him, was to be Allah's favoured one.

Madinan: 43 'âyahs

This is a Madinan sûrah. It deals with the fundamentals of the faith, namely, monotheism, the truth of Messengership (risâlah), the Book (Qur'ân), Resurrection, Judgement, Reward and punishment. It draws attention to the existence of Allah and His wonderful creation of the heavens and the earth, the sun and the moon, the stars and everything in them of living and non-living beings, to His Absolute Power over life and death and the inevitability of death, resurrection, reward and punishment. The distinction between the truth and falsehood is also emphasized by appropriate similes. The sûrah is named al-Ra'd with reference to its 'âyahs 12-13 wherein mention is made of lightning and thunder (al-ra'd) as illustrative of Allah's Power and wondrous creation, mentioning specifically that thunder itself and the angels sing His glory and that it is He Who sends the thunderbolts and strikes therewith whomsoever He wills. Such natural phenomena are as well His creation as are all the other things and beings in existence. Therefore these natural phenomena should not be deified and worshipped as gods.

لِلَّذِينَ ٱسْتَجَابُوا۟ 18. For those who respond[3]
لِرَبِّهِمُ to their Lord
ٱلْحُسْنَىٰ is the best outcome;[4]

14. SÛRAT IBRÂHÎM

Makkan: 52 'âyahs

Like the previous sûrah, this sûrah also deals with the fundamentals of the faith, namely, belief in Allah, Messengership (risâlah), resurrection and reward and punishment, with particular emphasis on the fact that all the Prophets have delivered the same message, calling men to the worship of Allah Alone and showing them the way to come out from the darkness of unbelief and paganism to the light of the faith and the right path. It is also emphasized that the Prophets were human beings like others but that they were especially chosen by Allah to convey His message to the people in their own language and that miracles were caused only by Allah to happen through some of his Messengers. In this connection reference is made to the mission of Prophet Mûsâ and how he endeavoured to bring his people to the right path and how they opposed and disbelieved him. The sûrah is named after Prophet Ibrâhîm, peace be on him, whose act of settling a branch of his family, Hâjar and Ismâ'îl, at Makka for the practice and propagation of tawhîd and whose prayer to Allah for blessing it are specially mentioned in the sixth section of the sûrah.

Makkan: 99 'âyahs

This is also a Makkan sûrah which deals with the fundamentals of the faith – monotheism, the truth of the Messengership (risâlah), resurrection, reward and punishment. It draws attention to the destruction of the previously unbelieving and sinful nations, particularly the Thamûd people, to whom Prophet Ṣâlih, peace be on him, was sent. They lived in al-Ḥijr, a region in north Arabia between Madina and Syria, where their ruins are still visible. The sûrah is named after it. This account is given in the context of the theme that all the previous Prophets and Messengers of Allah were opposed and ridiculed by the unbelievers of their respective peoples. The sûrah also refers to the creation of 'Âdam, peace be on him, and the disobedience of Iblîs who vowed to endeavour to misled men. It concludes by consoling the Prophet Muhammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, reminding him of Allah's great favour in sending down the Qur'ân on him, asking him to bear with patience the opposition and enmity of the unbelievers of his own community and giving him the good tidings of Allah's help and victory in the near future.

16. SÛRAT AL-NAḤL (THE BEES)

Makkan: 128 'âyahs

This is another Makkan sûrah and like all other Makkan sûrahs it concentrates on the fundamentals of the faith – monotheism, particularly in respect of worship, waḥy and Messengership (risâlah), resurrection and judgement. In bringing home these themes it draws attention to the wondrous creation of Allah, the heavens, the sun and the moon, the stars, the earth, the mountains, the seas, the rivers, the trees and plants, the beasts and animals, all of which point unmistakably to the Creator and His Caring and Controlling Hand behind them. It also emphasizes that the sun, the moon, the stars, the earth, the seas, the rivers and everything else pay obeisance to Allah, have been subjected to well designed laws and made serviceable to man, with the implication that gratitude and worship are solely and exclusively due to Allah and that none of these natural phenomena, such as the sun, the moon, the stars, the mountains, the rivers, the trees, however gigantic and stupendous they might seem to be, deserves to be worshipped.

The sûrah is named al-naḥl (the bee) which is mentioned in its 'âyahs 68-69 as one of Allah's wonderful creations with manifold benefits for mankind.

The sûrah starts with emphasizing the certainty of the day of Judgement and the truth of waḥy and risâlah. Then it reminds man of Allah's manifold graces on him and also of the fates of those who previously turned ungrateful to Allah. It also refers to some of the objections raised by the unbelievers of Makka, particularly their allegation that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, himself fabricated the Qur'ân with the help of certain persons, refuting the allegation strongly and pointing out that Allah sent down the Qur'ân with the angel Jibrîl and that it was the unbelievers themselves who fabricated the lie against the Prophet and the Qur'ân.

The 'âyah refutes that allegation. muftarin (s.; pl. muftarûn) = forger, one who fabricates lies, slanderer, calumniator (act. participle from iftarâ, form VIII of farâ [فرى fary], to cut lengthwise, to fabricate. See yaftarûna at 16:87, p. 856, n. 8).

3. The refutation of the unbelievers is continued in this 'âyah and it is pointed out that the 'âyahs of the Qur'ân were brought down by the angel Jibrîl, whose another name is Rûḥ al-Quds.

4. i. e., Jibrîl.

5. i. e., to make firm the faith ('îmân) of the believers. يثبت yuthabbita(u) = he makes firm, stabilizes, fastens, establishes (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from thabbata, form II of thabata [thabât/ thubût], to be firm, fixed. The final letter takes fathah because of a hidden 'an in li (of motivation) coming before the verb. See at 8:11, p. 550, n. 9).

6. i. e., good tidings of Allah's forgiveness, reward and blissful life in the hereafter. بشرى bushrâ = glad tidings, good news. See at 16:89, p. 857, n. 8.

7. The unbelievers further alleged that some other person taught the Prophet , peace and blessings of Allah be on him, to produce the Qur'ân. This allegation itself constitutes an admission on the part of the unbelievers that the Prophet himself did not know reading and writing.

8. This part of the 'âyah constitutes a three-fold refutation of the unbelievers allegation. It characterizes the allegation as an unjust innuendo, 'ilhâd; it points out that the person they hinted at spoke a foreign tongue and therefore incapable of instructing the Prophet who did not know any foreign tongue; and that it was also impossible for that person to compose the text of the Qur'ân which is in perfect Arabic. يلحدون yulḥidûna = blaspheme, deviate, digress, pervert, profane, unjustly hint, insinuate (v. iii. m. pl. impfct. from 'alḥada, form IV of laḥada, [لحد laḥd], to dig a grave, to deviate from the right course, to apostatize).

وَهَٰذَا لِسَانٌ while this is a tongue

17. SÛRAT AL-'ISRÂ' (The Night Journey)

Makkan: 111 'âyahs

This is also a Makkan sûrah which, like all othere Makkan sûahs, deals with the fundamentals of the faith — monotheism, the truth of risâlah (Messengership), Resurrection, Judgement, reward and punishment. The distinguishing feature of this sûtrah is that it opens with a reference to the most important miracle that was caused to happen to the Prophet Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, namely, his having been taken by Allah on a night journey ('isrâ') from the Ka'ba to Bayt al-Maqdis (Jerusalem). It formed the first stage of a longer and still more miraculous journey, his ascension into the haven, as indicated elsewhere in the Qur'ân (53:13-18) and as described in detail in authentic traditions. The sûrah is named after this memorable event.

Within the context of the fundamentals of the faith the sûrah speaks about the Children of Isrâ'îl, particularly their disobedience and defiance of Allah's commandments, and also about the creation in general, each aspect of which bears an eloquent testimony to the Creator and His Absolute Lordship over everything. It also contains a series of commandments for right social and personal conduct ('âyahs 23-39). Further, it points out the folly of the polytheists in setting partners with Allah, particularly their attributing sons and daughters to Him. It is also emphasized that the Qur'ân is sent down by Allah and that even if all men and jinn united and jointly attempted to produce the like of it they would not be able to do so ('âyahs 85-88). Reference is made also to the miracles specified and demanded of the Prophet by the unbelievers ('âyahs 90-95). The sûrah ends by once again stressing the doctrine of monotheism and that Allah has no partner, nor does He take any son, nor does He need any assistant or helper.

11. روح rûḥ has been used in a number of meanings in the Qur'ân, most notably, (a) in the sense of the spirit or breath of life [see 15:29; 38:72 and 66:12]; (b) the Qur'ânic waḥy [see 42:52]; (c) the angel Jibrîl [see 2:253; 26:193; 78:38 and 97:4] and (d) mercy [see 58:22] (See also Baṣâ'ir, III, 103-104). Here either the first or the second meaning may be taken; but the second meaning, that of Qur'ânic waḥy, seems more appropriate in view of the next clause of the 'âyah which is in apposition and which in fact explains the term rûḥ in the sense of "knowledge" and which says that "you" have been given but very little knowledge. The sense of Qur'ânic waḥy is further clear from the following 'âyah which says that Allah may, if He wills, withdraw what He has "communicated to you". Indeed, the subject of Qur'ânic waḥy continues till the 'âyah 88.

9. The fact that the Qur'ânic waḥy is a special grace of Allah to His Messenger and that this cannot be made up by any created being or beings is emphasized in this 'âyâh in the form of a challenge. يأتوا ya'tû(na) = they come, arrive [followed by the preposition bi the verb means to bring, produce] (v. iii. m. pl. impfct. from 'atâ [ityân/aty/ma'tâh], to come. The terminal nûn is dropped because of the particle 'an coming before the verb. See 'atâ at 16:1, p. 827, n. 1).

18. Sûrat Al-Kahf (The Cave)

Makkan: 110 'âyahs

This is also a Makkan sûrah which deals with monotheism (tawḥîd) and faith ('îmân). These themes are illustrated by three stories, namely, those of the "People of the Cave" ('Aṣḥâb al-Kahf), of the encounter of Mûsâ, peace be on him, with Khiḍr, a righteous servant of Allah, and of Dhû al-Qarnayn.

The "People of the Cave" were a group of young men who were believers and who fled for the sake of their faith from their unbelieving and inimical people and took shelter in a cave seeking Allah's protection. Allah made them sleep therein for 309 years after which they were awakened when they found that the things and people around them had changed but they thought that they had slept only for a little while. The story illustrates Allah's Power on the one hand and the inevitability of Resurrection on the other. It also indicates the continuity of the faith and the faithful (Muslims) throughout the ages. The sûrah is named after this incident.

The second story is that of the encounter of Mûsâ, peace be on him, with Khiḍr, a specially righteous servant of Allah, whom the former accompanied for a period with a view to acquiring knowledge. The story illustrates the principle of modesty in the seeeking of knowledge and the fact that Allah may give knowledge of some unseen matters to whomsoever He will. Some such unseen and unusual matters of which knowledge was given by Allah to Khiḍr and over which Mûsa, peace be on him, could hardly remain patient are mentioned in the course of this story.

The third story is that of a powerful monarch, Dhû al-Qarnayn, whom Allah gave a vast kingdom along with wisdom, righteousness and justice and who accomplished a number of good deeds including the construction of a gigantic barrier against the incursions of Ya'jûj and Ma'jûj, two ferocious tribes.

Along with these stories other parables and facts are mentioned to emphasize that truth and faith are not interlinked with worldly affluence and power.

19. SÛRAT MARYAM

Makkan: 98 'âyahs

This is also a Makkan sûrah which deals with monotheism (tawḥîd) — belief in the existence and Oneness of Allah together with belief in Resurrection, Judgement, reward and punishment. In the context of these themes it mentions the stories of some Prophets. Reference is made first to Prophet Zakarîyâ, peace be on him, whom Allah bestowed a son, Yaḥyâ, peace be on him, at a very advanced age when his (Zakarîyâ's) wife had become barren. This fact is mentioned to illustrate the power of Allah. It is followed by a still more miraculous power of Allah, namely, the birth of 'Îsâ, peace be on him, to Maryam without any father. The sûrah is named after her. It also refers to some other Prophets, namely, Isḥâq, Ya'qûb, Mûsâ, Hârûn, Ismâ'îl, Idrîs and Nûḥ, peace be on them, to bring home the fact that Allah's message through all these Prophets has been the same, that of tawḥîd and call to abandon all shades of polytheism (shirk). Attention is drawn also to the inevitability of Resurrection and Judgement and the horrors and vehemence accompanying them. At the end the sin and enormity of ascribing a son to Allah is emphatically denounced.

20. SÛRAT TÂ-HÂ

Makkan: 135 'âyahs

This is another Makkan sûrah which, like all other Makkan sûrahs, concentrates on the fundamentals of the faith – monotheism (tawḥîd), Prophethood (nubûwwah), Resurrection and Judgement. It starts with consoling the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and through him the beilievers, that the Qur'ân has not been sent down to be a cause of distress to them. And in order to illlustrate the fact that Allah sent the same message and guidance through all the Prophets and that all the Prophets had to face the stubborn opposition and enmity of the unbelieving men it mentions in some detail the story of Prophets Mûsâ and Hârûn, peace be on them, with the Pharaoh and the Children of Isrâ'îl. A quick reference is made also to the story of'Adam to point out Allah's mercy on him and to remind how Iblîs has ever since been man's enemy, trying to lead him astray. Some account is given also of the scene and circumstances of Resurrection and the day of Judgement.

The sûrah is named Tâ-Hâ which is also a name of Prophet Muhammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him. One important historical fact to remember in connection with this sûrah is that 'Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, embraced Islam in the seventh year of the Prophet's mission on perusing a part of it which he obtained from his sister Fâtimah and her husband Sa'îd, may Allah be pleased with them.

21. SÛRAT AL- 'ANBIYÂ' (THE PROPHETS)

Makkan: 112 'âyahs

Like the other Makkan sûrahs, this sûrah also deals with the fundamentals of the faith, namely, belief in the Only One God (monotheism), Resurrection and the Day of Judgement. It starts with the mention of man's indifference to the inevitability of Resurrection, Judgement and the life in the hereafter. Reference is then made to the evidences in the creation pointing to the Creator and His exclusive ordering and sustaining of the universe and all that exists. In this connection the beginnings of the creation of the heaven and the earth and of all living beings are indicated ('âyahs 30-31). Mention is made also of the unbelievers' attitude, particularly their ridiculing and disbelieving the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and of the norm of destruction of the sinful people by way of Allah's punishment. These themes are brought home by short accounts of some of the Prophets – Isḥâq, Ya'qûb, Lûṭ, Nûḥ, Dâ'ud, Ayyûb, Ismâ'îl, Idsrîs, Dhû al-Kifl, Dhû al-Nûn (Yûnus), Zakarîyâ and Îsâ – peace be on them, illustrating the facts that all the Prophets delivered the same message of monotheism and all had to face the sarcasm, opposition and enmity of the unbelieving people. The sûrah is named al-'Anbiyâ' (The Prophets) after them.

23. SÛRAT AL-MU'MINÛN (The Believers)
Makkan: 118 'âyahs

This is a Makkan sûrah. Its first eleven 'âyahs describe the characteristics of believers and the rewrad that awaits them. The sûrah is nameed after them — The Believers (Al-Mu'minûn).

Like the other Makkan sûrahs this sûrah also deals with the fundamentals of the faith, tahwhîd (monotheism), risâlah (Messengership), Resurrection and Judgement. These themes are brought home by drawing attention to Allah's creation of man through different stages in the mother's womb, His creation of the heaven and the earth, His sending down of rains and growing plants, trees and fruits and His providing of domestic animals with various benefits for man, together with an emphasis on the fact that man shall die and shall be raised up on the Day of Resurrection.

The theme of risâlah is emphasized with reference to the accounts of some Prophets like Nûh, Hûd, Mûsâ and 'Îsâ, peace be on them, pointing out that all these Prophets delivered the same message of monotheism, that all of them were disbelieved and opposed by their respective peoples and that all of them were helped and rescued by Allah. Reference is then made to the similar unbelief and opposition of the Makkan leaders to the message delivered to them. The sûrah ends by referring once again to the inevitability of the Resurrection and to the fact that man will not have a second chance to return to the worldy life and make amends for his lapses and mistakes.

24. SÛRAT Al-NÛR (The Light)

Madinan: 64 'âyahs

This is a Madinan sûrah. It is named "The Light" mainly after its 'ayah 35 which says that "Allah is the Light of the heavens and the earth" and also because it contains the light of guidance in building and preserving the character and integrity of the individual, the family and the society. It lays emphasis on healthy and unblemished relationship between man and woman, enjoins them to protect their respective private parts and not to indulge in unlawful sexual enjoyment and, by way of precaution against such pitfalls, to lower their eyes if they come across each other and specially asks women not to expose their beauty to those who are not their husbands and close relations within the prohibited degree. It also asks the believers to respect the privacy of one another and not to enter the house of anyone unless specifically permitted to do so. For the same purpose of building and preserving the character and integrity of the individual, the family and the society it prescribes specific penalties and corrective measures for the offences of zinâ (adultery and fornication), of calumny and accusation of lack of chastity against a chaste woman and of unfounded accusation of faithlessness by the husband against the wife and vice-versa. It also teaches etiquette and manners at home and in society.

As the sûrah contains an allusion to the false calumny hurled against 'Umm al-Mu'minîn 'Â'ishah (Allah be pleased with her) by some hypocrites in the year 5-6 H., it was revealed about that time.

25. SÛRAT AL-FURQÂN (The Distinguishment)

Makkan: 77 'âyahs

This is a Makkan sûrah and like other Makkan sûrahs it concentrates on the fundamentals of the faith, especially the truth of the Qur'ân and the Messengership of Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, the Resurrection and rewards and punishments. It refers to the doubts and objections raised by the unbelievers against these matters, such as that the Qur'ân was only "tales of the ancients", that it was fabricated by the Prophet with the assistance of some others, that why a man and not an angel should have been Allah's Messenger, that if at all a human being was to be chosen as Allah's Messenger, he should have been from among the rich and influential persons of the community and that the Prophet should have brought Allah before them to prove his claim. The sûrah gives proper replies to such obejcetions of the unbelievers. In doing so it also refers to some of the previous Prophets and Messengers and how their respective peoples disbelieved them and were therefore punished, such as the people of Nûḥ, peace be on him, the 'Âd, the Thamûd, the "People of al-Rass", the people of Lût, peace be on him, and some others.

The sûrah is named al-Furqân (the Distinguishment) which is another name for the Qur'ân, and by which it is referred in its first 'âyah. It is so called because it distinguishes between the truth and the untruth, belief and unbelief, light and darkness, guidance and error.

Makkan: 227 'âyahs

This is also a Makkan sûrah and like other Makkan surahs it deals with the fundamentals of the faith, more specifically with monotheism (tawhîd), the Messengership (risâlah) of Muaḥmmad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and Resurrection. It opens with a reference to the Qur'ân and the attitude of the unbelievers who turned away from it in spite of its being a clear guidance to the truth. Reference is then made, by way of illustrating the attitude of the unbelievers of all times and the theme of monotheism, to some of the previous Messengers and how they were received by their respective unbelieving peoples. In this context the accounts of Mûsâ and Hârûn, peace be on them, in relation to their mission to the Pharaoh and his people, of Ibrâhîm, peace be on him, and his efforts to bring his people to the worship of Allah Alone, and of the missions and efforts of Nûḥ, Hûd, Ṣâliḥ, Lût and Shu'ayb, peace be on them, are given one by one, pointing out the way of Allah's dealing with the unbelieving and disobedient peoples and the fates respectively of the godfearing and the sinful on the day of Judgement. Towards the end the sûrah gives replies to the allegations of the unbelievers that the Qur'ân was a work of satans or a composition of a Prophet's. It emphatically asserts: " Verily it is a sent-down by the Lord of all beings. There brought it down the Faithful Spirit (Jibrîl), ..." and that the poets "wander in every vale" and say what they do not do ('âyahs 224-226). It is with reference to this that the sûrah is named al-Shu'arâ' (the Poets).

27. SÛRAT AL-NAML (THE ANTS)

Makkan: 93 'âyahs

This is a Makkan sûrah and is closely related to the one preceding it and the one following it in respect of themes and the period of revelation. In fact these three sûrahs — al-Shu'arâ', al-Naml and al-Qaṣaṣ — were revealed consecutively in the mid-Makan period and they are also arranged consecutively in the Qur'ân.

Like the other Makkan sûrahs this sûrah also deals with the fundamentals of the faith, namely, monotheism (tawḥîd), the Messengership (risâlah) of Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, the truth of the Qur'ân as a scripture sent down by Allah, and of resurrection, judgement, reward and punishment. These themes are brought home by drawing attention to the various aspects of the wonderful creation of Allah's and by a reference to some of the previous Prophets who all conveyed the same message, pointing out how Allah's retribution befell their unbelieving and disobedient peoples. In this context the accounts of Prophets Mûsâ, Ṣâlih and Luṭ, peace be on them, are given briefly while those of Prophets Dâûd and Sulaymân, peace be on them, are given in some detail. These two Prophets were special in the sense that along with their being Prophets they were also kings who were graced by Allah with special favours and capabilities, such as understanding the speeches of birds and other animals. These two Prophets, notwithstanding their being powerful kings, faithfully delivered the message of the truth to their peoples and to their contemporary rulers and kings. Specially this was the case with Sulaymân, peace be on him, to whose call to the truth Queen Bilqîs, the Queen of Sheba (Saba') responded and submitted humbly.

The sûrah is named al-Naml (the Ants) with reference to the incident of the warning given to the ants by their leader on the approach of Sulaymân and his army to a valley where those ants abounded. He understood the speech of the ant and spared them ('âyahs 18-19).

In fact this sûrah is supplementary and complementary to the two previous sûrahs.

It is called al-Qaṣaṣ (The Narrative) mainly with reference to the narrative of the Prophet Mûsâ, peace be on him, and his struggle with Fir'aun (the Pharaoh), which it gives in greater detail than that done in any other sûrah, bringing into proper relief the struggle between the truth and the untruth, between arrogance and intransigence on the one hand and belief and obedience to Allah on the other. This is further highlighted by the story of Qârûn and his dealings with his people.

8. This 'âyah is a clear evidence that the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, did not entertain any ambition nor made any preparation for becoming a Prophet.

9. i. e., he was made a Prophet and given the Qur'ân only as mercy from Allah.

10. ظهير ẓahîr = helper, assistant, one who backs, (act. participle in the scale of fa'îl from ẓahara [ẓuhûr], to appear, to overcome. See at 28:17, p.1237, n. 2).

عَنْ ءَايَٰتِ ٱللَّهِ	away from the signs of Allah
بَعْدَ إِذْ	after that they have been
أُنزِلَتْ إِلَيْكَ	sent down[1] to you.
وَٱدْعُ إِلَىٰ رَبِّكَ	And call[2] to your Lord;
وَلَا تَكُونَنَّ	and never be
مِنَ ٱلْمُشْرِكِينَ	of the polytheists.[3]
﴿٨٧﴾
وَلَا تَدْعُ مَعَ	88. And invoke not along
ٱللَّهِ إِلَٰهًا ءَاخَرَ	with Allah another god.
لَآ إِلَٰهَ إِلَّا هُوَ	There is no deity except He.

إِلَّا وَجْهَهُۥ	except His Countenance.[5]
لَهُ ٱلْحُكْمُ	His is the decision[6]
وَإِلَيْهِ	and to Him
تُرْجَعُونَ ﴿٨٨﴾	you shall all be returned.[7]

1. This clause clearly means that 'âyahs (signs) are the texts of the Qur'ân. أنزلت 'unzilat = she or it was sent down (v. iii. f. s. past passive from 'anzala, form IV of nazala [nuzûl], to come down. See at 9:127, p. 633, n. 8).

2. i. e., call to the worship of Allah Alone. ادع ud'u = you call, pray, invite (v. ii. m. s. imperative from da'â [du'â'], to call, to summon. See at 7:134, p. 514, n. 4).

3. مشركين mushrikîn (pl.; accusative /genitive of mushrikûn, sing. mushrik) = polytheists, those who set partners with Allah (active participle from 'ashraka, form IV of sharika [shirk/ shirkah/ sharikah], to share. See at 16:120, p. 869, n. 4).

4. هالك hâlik (s.; pl. hâlikûn) = one who perishes, dies, is dead (act. participle from halaka [halk/ hulk/halâk/ tahlukah], to perish, to die. See hâlikîn at 12:85, p. 754, n. 1).

5. i. e. Allah Alone shall never die. Countenance (wajh) is used here figuratively to denote His Self (dhât). وجه wajh (s.; pl. wujûh) = appearance, face, countenance, front, direction, purpose, goal, intent, objective. See at 10:104, p. 644, n. 6.

6. حكم ḥukm (pl. أحكام 'aḥkâm) = judgement, order, decree, command, authority, rule, law, decision. See at 28:70, p. 1256, n. 12.

7. i. e., for judgement, reward and punishment. ترجعون turja'ûna = you (all) are returned, sent back (v. ii. m. pl. impfct. passive from raja'a [rujû'], to return. See at 28:70, p. 1257, n. 1).

29. SÛRAT AL-'ANKABÛT (The Spider)

Makkan: 69 'âyahs

This is the fourth of the series of mid-Makkan period sûrahs starting with sûrah 26. Like the other three sûrahs it also deals with the themes of tawḥîd (monotheism), risâlah (messengership of Prophet Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him), Resurrection, Judgement, reward and punishment. Like the other sûrahs, it also refers to the missions and efforts of the previous Prophets like Nûḥ, Ibrâhîm, Lût and Shu'ayb, peace be on them, to bring their respective peoples to the acceptance of the truth. The main emphasis of the sûrah is that all the previous Prophets brought the same message of monotheism and complete submission to Allah (Islam) and that belief ('îmân) entailed the undergoing of tests and trials, especially in an environment of unbelief and polytheism. All the previous Prophets and their followers, the believers, had to undergo such tests and trials and to suffer opposition, enmity, oppression and presecution for the sake of the faith. Such was also the case with Prophet Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and his followers, especially during the Makkan period. Belief is not thus just a matter of assertion but very much actual conduct and practice. "Do men think that they will be left alone for they say 'we believe' and they will not be put to test?" ('âyah 2).

In this context reference is made also to the conduct of such opponents and rejecters of the truth as the 'Âd and the Thamûd peoples, Qârûn, Hâman and others and how they were dealt with by Allah. It is then emphasized ('âyahs 47-49) that the Qur'ân which the Prophet Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, gave out was sent down by Allah, for he did not know reading and writing and, therefore, was not capable of composing the Qur'ân.

The sûrah is named al-'ankabût (the spider) with reference to the comparison made in its 'âyah 41 that the polythesists' taking of the imaginary gods and goddesses for worship and invocation is as futile and frail as the spider's taking its house, which is the frailest of structures, for protection and support.

6. The Qur'ân should have been considered by the Makkan unbelievers a sufficient miracle for them; for they knew that the Prophet was unable to read and write and therefore unable to compose the Qur'ân and further that the text of the Qur'ân was unique and inimitable so much so that they openly called the reciting of it a "magic" and the Prophet "a magician". يكف yakfi(ī) = he or it suffices, is enough (v. iii. m. s. impfct. from kafâ [kifâyah], to be enough. Makkan : 60 'âyahs

This is a Makkan sûrah which, like other Makkan sûrahs, deals with the themes of tawḥîd (monotheism), risâlah (Prophethood of Muḥammad, peace and blessings of Allah be on him), ba'ath (Resurrection), judgement, reward and punishment, and brings home these themes by various arguments and proofs. It was revealed six or seven years before the hijrah to Madina. It starts with a reference to the defeat at that time of the Romans by the Persians who captured Jerusalem and foretells that within less than ten years the Persians would be defeated by the Romans. It also foretells that on that day the Muslims would rejoice at the victory given them by Allah. The prophecy was fufilled in the second year of the hijrah when the Muslims were given the significant victory by Allah at the Battle of Badr and by which time the Persians also were defeated by the Romans. This prophecy of the Qur'ân is a manifest miracle which attests its truth. The sûrah is named al-Rûm (the Romans) with reference to this imporatnt fact mentioned in its first six 'âyahs. Incidentally, the unbelieving Quraysh who sympathised with the Persians made a bet with Abû Bakr, may Allah be pleased with him, on this prophecy of the Qur'ân and lost it and were duly humbled when the prophecy came true.

31. SÛRAT LUQMÂN

Makkan: 34 'âyahs

This is a Makkan sûrah which, like other Makkan sûrahs, deals with the fundamentals of the faith, namely, tawḥîd (monotheism), risâlah (Messengership), Resurrection and judgement. It starts with drawing attention to the "Wise Book", the Qur'ân, which has been given by Allah as guidance and mercy for the righteous and then points out Allah's creation of the heavens and the earth, the night and day and and how He has reduced to service all that is in the heavens and the earth for the benefit of man. It also mentions how Luqmân was given wisdom (ḥikmah) by Allah and how he advised his son about monotheism, the sin of shirk (associating partners with Allah), the duty to be obedient to parents, to pray regularly and not to be proud and self-conceited ('âyahs 12-19). The sûrah is named Luqmân after this. The sûra also points out that if all the trees of the earth were pens and all the seas were ink, they would be exhausted before the Words of Allah are exhausted and that the creation of man and his resurrection are not but as the same individual ('âyas 27 and 28).

This is a Makkan sûrah. It starts with stressing the fact that the Qur'ân has been sent down by Allah and gives a reply with cogent arguments to the allegation of the unbelievers that it was fabricated by the Prophet. It also draws attention to the wonderful creation of Allah, the universe, and dispels the doubts of the unbelievers regarding resurrection, judgement, reward and punishment. The sûrah is called al-sijdah (Prostration) with reference to the description of the believers ('âyah 15) who prostrate themselves when they hear the 'âyahs of the Qur'ân.

33. SÛRAT AL-'AḤZÂB (The Confederates)

Madinan: 73 'âyahs

It is a Madinan sûrah revealed between 5 and 7 H. It refers to the famous Battle of Khandaq (Trench) or Battle of the Confederates. The unbelieving Makkans formed an alliance with the Jewish tribe of Banû al-Naḍîr, who had already been expelled from Madina, and the Jewish tribe of Banû Qurayẓah, who were still at Madina, together with the hypocrites and some other bedouin tribes like the Ghaṭafân and, with a combined and well-equipped army of 10,000, laid siege to Madina in Shawwâl, 5 H. with a view to rooting out the Muslims and Islam. The Muslims, under the guidance of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, and on the suggestion of Salmân al-Fârisî, had already dug a deep ditch (khandaq) round the exposed parts of Madina to withstand the attack. The siege lasted for more than three weeks during which the Jewish tribe of Banû Qurayẓah and the hypocrites secretly attempted to help the enemy. Ultimately all their attempts were foiled and the Confederate army were obliged to withdraw in utter disarray and confusion. The conquest and expulsion of Banû Qurayẓah followed shortly, which is also referred to in the sûrah.

Besides referring to these events and to the intrigues and conduct of the hypocrites and Allah's help for the believers, the sûrah lays down that adopted sons are not to be regarded as sons but they are to be ascribed to their real fathers, that the jâhilî custom of ẓihâr (comparing the wife's back with the back of the husband's mother) does not constitute a proper divorce, that Muslim women should wear ḥijâb (covering) and that the family of the Prophet, peace and blessings of Allah be on him, are to be duly respected and his wives are to be regarded as mothers of the believers.
